ABOUT

Stuart Edmunds is a National Hunt trainer based at Croft Farm in Stewkley, Buckinghamshire. The purpose-built yard provides modern gallops, schooling facilities, an arena, horse walker and extensive turnout, allowing programmes to be tailored to individual horses. Stuart has worked with horses for more than four decades and has trained winners at major jumps meetings, including Cheltenham and Aintree. The stable welcomes established and first-time owners, with routes including sole ownership, partnerships, syndicates, leasing, affordable shares and the Edmunds Racing Club. Communication, horse welfare and helping owners feel closely involved are central to the experience offered by the team.

EXPANDED PROFILE

Stuart Edmunds trains from Croft Farm at Stewkley, where the team moved in August 2023. The purpose-built yard provides a five-furlong circular carpet gallop, a deep-sand gallop, an all-weather schooling strip, an arena, a covered horse walker and extensive turnout paddocks. These facilities allow each horse to be prepared according to its temperament, physical needs and racing programme.

Stuart has more than four decades of experience with horses and has trained notable winners at Cheltenham, Aintree and over the Grand National fences. Assistant trainer Harriet Edmunds supports the daily training and ownership operation, while the wider team places strong emphasis on welfare, communication and creating an enjoyable experience for owners.

Ownership routes include sole ownership, partnerships, managed syndicates, leasing, affordable shares and the Edmunds Racing Club. New owners can also receive guidance on BHA registration, colours, banking, VAT, insurance and other practical requirements. Prospective owners are encouraged to contact Stuart or Harriet to discuss current horses, available shares and the structure most suited to their budget and preferred level of involvement.

ENHANCED BENEFIT

Direct contact details and live links make it easy for prospective owners and visitors to act. Content remains static for the booked six- or twelve-month period.

EXPERIENCED HORSEMANSHIP

Stuart Edmunds Racing combines more than four decades of equine experience with a modern, purpose-built training base and a highly personal approach to ownership. Stuart developed his knowledge through a lifetime around horses before taking out his own licence and building a stable respected for careful placing, patient development and open communication.

The team moved to Croft Farm in August 2023. Facilities include a five-furlong circular carpet gallop, a two-furlong deep-sand gallop, an all-weather schooling strip, an arena, a covered horse walker and extensive turnout paddocks. This range of options helps the team vary training, support recovery and prepare horses as individuals rather than following a single routine.

Stuart has trained winners at major jumps meetings, including Cheltenham and Aintree, and has enjoyed success over the Grand National fences. Each achievement reflects the same central philosophy: protect the horse, understand its strengths and choose the right opportunity.

OWNERSHIP THAT FEELS PERSONAL

Assistant trainer Harriet Edmunds plays a central role in the daily training and ownership operation. Owners are encouraged to visit the yard, watch their horses exercise and maintain direct contact with the team. Regular, realistic updates are designed to explain both the exciting moments and the inevitable setbacks that come with racehorse ownership.

A broad range of ownership structures is available. These may include sole ownership, partnerships, professionally managed syndicates, leasing, affordable share opportunities and membership of the Edmunds Racing Club. The stable can help first-time owners understand BHA registration, colours, insurance, VAT, banking and the practical administration involved.

This sponsored profile gives the stable a prominent position within the Jumps Club directory. Monthly updates can highlight new horses, shares becoming available, recent winners, stable visits and changing ownership opportunities, giving prospective owners a clear reason to return and make contact.
